

A LONE BANDIT ROBS THREE MEN AT VAN STATION

HOLD-UP MAN FORCES DWIGHT VANLANDINGHAM, THE NIGHT OPERATOR, AND TWO MEN WHO WERE WAITING IN THE DEPOT, AT POINT OF REVOLVERS, TO GIVE UP THEIR MONEY AND WATCHES, AT NEAR 3 O'CLOCK SUNDAY NIGHT.

POLICE HAVE A GOOD CLUE

Strange Actions of Man, Who Had Been Around Local Hotels for Several Days, Causes Police and Railroad Detectives to Believe That He Is Guilty of the Robbery.—Officers Have Good Description.

Dwight Vanlandingham, Vandalia operator and night agent, Dave Holloway, a Rose Polytechnic student, who was awaiting a train for Terre Haute at the Vandalia station, and Dwight Siddons, of Fillmore, who was waiting for his cousin, Rollo Siddons, another Vandalia operator, were held up and robbed by a lone highwayman, at the Vandalia station, at five minutes before 3 o'clock this morning.

The robber, who wore a handkerchief over his face as a mask and who compelled his victims to throw up their hands at the point of two revolvers, secured about $12 and two watches from his victims.

Police Have Good Clue.

It is believed that the man who committed the bold hold-up, had been in Greencastle for several days. The man, whose actions have lead the police and Vandalia detectives to believe that he is the guilty man, arrived in Greencastle Thursday and registered at the Commercial Hotel as "C. A. Smith, Indianapolis."

He stayed at the Commercial Hotel Thursday night but on Friday he went to the Clapinger Hotel, where he registered for the night. He carried no baggage. Saturday night he again went to the Commercial Hotel and registered. He seemed to have plenty of money and paid his bill in advance.

Late Arrival at Hotel.

Smith did not show up at the Commercial Hotel until after 4 o'clock Sunday morning, when he registered for the night. Charley Rice, the night clerk at the hotel states that when he came into the office he was so cold that he could not write his name upon the hotel register and that he asked the clerk to write it for him.

He did not attempt to explain to the clerk why he arrived so late at the hotel nor how he had gotten so cold. Smith is described as tall, slender and good-looking. He wore a dark blue serge suit and brown overcoat. His hat was a soft black felt.

His Actions Caused Comment.

During the days and evenings he spent at the hotel he stayed around the lobby, playing cards and talking with the other guests. He never spoke of his business here and his actions caused some comment among the hotel guests.

Sunday night, when he retired, he left a call for 1 o'clock, stating to the clerk that he was going south on the Monon. The clerk called him at that hour but it was nearly 2 o'clock, when he got down stairs. Policeman Arthur Stone was in the hotel lobby when the man came down stairs. After Smith had departed, Rice mentioned to the officer that the man's actions had been peculiar during his stay here and the policeman started out to trace him, and see just where he went to.

Police Fail to Trace Him.

Mr. Stone went to the Monon but found that he had not gone there, as he stated he intended doing. Not long after Mr. Stone had returned from the Monon station he heard of the hold-up. From the victims of the robbery it was learned that the description of the robber exactly fitted the man Smith. The officer learned that a man answering the description had been seen at the Gas Works, near the Vandalia station shortly before the robbery. Efforts to find Smith were made at once but he could not be located.

All railroad stations were notified to be on the lookout for him and the Vandalia detectives were notified to be on the lookout for him.

Story of the Hold-up.

Operator Vanlandingham had just stepped from the north side of the waiting room to go to the baggage room when he was confronted by the robber. The man covered Vanlandingham with revolvers, one in each hand, and ordered him to throw up his hands. Evidently believing that Vanlandingham was too slow in obeying the matter, the robber struck him several times on the head with one of his revolvers. After striking Vanlandingham, the robber ordered him to turn and march back into the waiting room. The robber kept one revolver against Vanlandingham's back while he covered Dave Holloway, of Terre Haute, a Rose Poly student, an occupant of the waiting room, with the other.

Emptied Vandalia Money Drawer.

Compelling both his victims to keep their hands above their heads, the robber marched them into the operator's room. He then ordered Vanlandingham to open the cash drawer, which he did. The robber emptied the money, about $7.20 out and placed it in his pocket. He then marched the two men into the waiting room and relieved them of their watches. Young Holloway also had about $4.00 in change, which the robber appropriated. He allowed Holloway to retain his ticket to Terre Haute and twenty-five cents. The robber made no attempt to rob the large safe which is in the office.

After taking the watches the robber ordered the two men to stand with their faces against the wall and keep their hands above their heads. He told them if they moved from that position before five minutes were up, he would shoot.

As the robber was above to leave the station, he noticed Raymond Siddons, Fillmore, who was peacefully sleeping on a bench in the waiting room, unaware of the hold-up which was in progress. Siddons, who had been in Limesdale to visit friends Sunday evening, had gone to the station to await the arrival of his cousin, Rollo Siddons, another Vandalia operator, with whom he was to spend the night. Awakening Siddons the robber relieved him of the little money he had, and then left the station. The victims of the hold-up, facing the wall with their hands above their heads, were unable to tell which way the man went.

Victims Describe the Robber.

It was less than a minute after the rob or disappeared before a bus containing several passengers drove up. The three victims immediately lowered their hands and told of the hold-up. The police were notified and towns in all directions were notified to be on the lookout for the man.

Young Holloway, who was on his way home from Bloomington, where he had attended a basketball game, stated this morning that he was sure he could identify the robber. He said he was about 6 feet tall, would weigh about 175 pounds, had light hair and blue eyes. He was wearing a long black overcoat and soft slouch hat. The lower part of his face was covered by a blue bandana handkerchief. Holloway is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Graham, of Terre Haute.

Police Sure They Are Right.

There is little doubt in the mind of the local of the local officers and Vandalia chief of detectives, Lauderback, who is here working on the case, but that the man who registered as C. A. Smith in the local hotels, is the man wanted. The description given by the victims of the hold-up and the description of the man at the hotels is identical.

What Smith was doing on the night he did not reach the hotel until after 4 o'clock, is not known. The general supposition, however, is that he went out to do a hold-up job, but did not succeed in finding an opportunity to hold up anyone and so decided to wait until Sunday night.

He volunteered Sunday to tell Landlord Bowen of the Commercial

Hotel, that he had gone to the moving picture show Saturday night and had accompanied a young lady home from the show. This was his only explanation for getting in late Saturday night.

RALSTON ENDORSED AT BRAZIL SESSION.

Democratic Convention Also Lines Up for McCullough for Supreme Court Reporter.

BRAZIL, Ind., March 9.—The biggest political mass convention ever held in Brazil township assembled at the court house last night when the democrats of the city met to select six delegates to the state convention. Over 500 persons were crowded into the small court room and many left, their fears being exercised by the reported unsafe condition of the old court house with such a big crowd in it.

While all were for Samuel Ralston for governor, two tickets were presented, one by the old machine crowd and the other by the antis. The latter won out by a vote of 230 to 161. Many scratched tickets were voted, but they were not counted as they would only have increased the majority for the anti-ticket. The delegates are A. W. Knight, A. J. Frisz, Martin Moran, L. L. Reffett, Sam Lynch and France Hawkins. This delegation is probably the heaviest that will attend the state convention, as all of the delegates except Knight weigh considerably in excess of 200 pounds. The convention endorsed Charles McCullough for supreme court reporter.

HONOR PUPILS OF THE HIGH SCHOOL

SIX SENIORS WHO RANK HIGHEST IN GRADES FOR THEIR SCHOOL TERMS ARE NAMED.—RUTH GRISMER IS FIRST IN LIST.

GRADUATION TIME IS NEAR

The Greencastle High School Honor pupils have been named. Ruth Grismer, Jennie Strain, Ruth Swinford, Irene Hammond, Bruce McIntosh and Kate Oliver, are the pupils, who during their four years course in the local high school, have earned scholarship honors.

The average grade of the pupils for the entire high school course is taken as the basis for deciding honors. And as the reward for their studentship the honor students, together with three chosen by the class, represent the graduating class in its commencement.

The three who have been chosen by the class to speak at the commencement exercises are Curtis Strain, Ethel Boyle and Paul Manuel. The announcement of the honor pupils and the class speakers was made today by Superintendent Woody.

Marshal Johns received a letter from an Indianapolis woman Saturday evening asking the particulars of the arrest of Harry J. Stevens, who cashed a bad check at the Kelly Dry Goods store Thursday evening. The woman said that the description tallied with that of her brother, Harry J. Stevens, who disappeared from Indianapolis about two weeks ago. She said that her brother had a tattoo mark on his left arm. Marshal Johns examined Stevens Saturday evening but found no tattoo marks. A picture of the Indianapolis man somewhat resembles the man under arrest here, but certain features proved that the prisoner and the Indianapolis man were not the same person. The Indianapolis woman said that when her brother disappeared he was despondent on account of ill health and lack of employment and that she feared his mind was affected.

After being out five hours Saturday night, the jury in the case of the National Casket Company, of Indianapolis, against Bert P. Sandy, of Cloverdale, returned a verdict in favor of the casket company. The company was suing for $222.50, alleged due on a casket, and was given a verdict of $190. Sandy must also pay the court costs.

SAYS CONVICTED MAN IS INNOCENT

CONFESSION OF TERRE HAUTE THUG CLEARS EBB CHRISTENBERRY, FORMER GREENCASTLE MAN, OF CRIME FOR WHICH HE HAD ALREADY BEEN SENTENCED TO PRISON.

TO INVESTIGATE CONFESSION

Captured while escaping from the scene of the robbery which he had just carried out, and with $291 in stolen cash upon him, Fred Bushay, professional burglar, disclosed in a confession to Capt. Matthew Dorley, of the detective department, Saturday morning, that Ebb Christenberry, convicted of the robbery of George Baylor and sentenced by Judge Fortune to a two to fourteen year term in prison, was innocent of the crime, and that he and a "pal," upon whom he refused to "peach," had committed the murderous assault and robbery.

The startling confession of Bushay came as a reprieve at the eleventh hour for Christenberry who was to have been sent to the state penitentiary Monday morning. Upon strong evidence a jury had convicted Christenberry, who has a police record. After Bushay calmly admitted that he was one of the men who had struck George Baylor down, robbed him and placed his unconscious body on the railroad track to allow a train to destroy the living evidence, the entire detective department was unleashed to run down the truth of the confession, and, if possible, to prove it and secure the release of Christenberry from the sentence.

Deputy Prosecutor Charles Whitlock and Superintendent of Police Daniel Fasig held a long consultation with both Christenberry and Bushay and rather than do injustice Christenberry will not be sent to the penitentiary unless Bushay's confession is proven false.

Spent from running to escape bullets fired at him by Hermon N. Reiz, grocer at 444 North Fourth street, after he had made his escape with all the money in the store, Bushay ran into the arms of Officers Edward Miller and Lawrence Mahaney when he turned a corner, and at the point of the officers' guns was returned to the store, identified by Mr. Reiz and jailed, fifteen minutes after the robbery had been perpetrated.

Bushay is now believed to have been the man who attempted to hold up a Vandalia train just west of Terre Haute several weeks ago. That his confession of the Baylor robbery is truthful, is now certain. Steps have been taken for the immediate release of Christenberry.—Terre Haute Daily Tribune.

ROACHDALE WINS FROM CLINTON TOWNSHIP.

The Roachdale High School basketball team defeated the Clinton Township High School team Friday night, by the score of 20 to 14. Roachdale showed great class in goal shooting, while Clinton was clearly out of form. Hashbarger played a wonderful game at guard for Roachdale. Capt. Wood played well for Clinton. Clinton's passing was inaccurate and was often broken up by Roachdale. The game was rough throughout. The first half seemed a walkway for Roachdale but Clinton came back strong and made things interesting. Line-up and summary:

ADMITTS STEALING MORE CHICKENS.

Mr. Ratcliff, a merchant at Bainbridge, was here Sunday and identified John Miller, who is confined in the county jail, as the man who sold him eighteen chickens about two weeks ago. Shortly after being identified by Ratcliff, Miller confessed stealing the chickens from his former employer, Elisha Patrick, who lives near New Maysville. When arraigned before Judge J. P. Hughes last Friday, Miller confessed of stealing twenty-nine chickens from Mr. Patrick, but stated that he knew nothing of the other chickens that had disappeared from Mr. Patrick's chicken house. The confession of Miller Sunday makes forty-seven chickens he has admitted stealing from Mr. Patrick.

Relatives of Miller were here Saturday afternoon attempting to persuade Judge Hughes to suspend the intermediate sentence of from one to eight years in the reformatory, which he imposed on Miller. The evidence, however, did not indicate that lenience in Miller's case would be advisable, and Judge Hughes refused. Sheriff Stroube will take Miller to the reformatory at Jeffersonville tonight. Besides the sentence in the reformatory, Miller is disfranchised for two years and must pay a fine of $10.

FORMER GREENCASTLE WOMAN TO ORGANIZE FOREIGN OPERA SCHOOL.

A Chicago newspaper publishes the following regarding a former Greencastle girl, who since leaving this town has become prominent in Chicago musical circles:

"Ethel Sutherland Bergey will go to Europe this summer in company with Theodore S. Bergey, for the purpose of organizing a branch of Bergey's Chicago School of Opera in Paris or Berlin. The Bergeys have long been known for their work as directors of a preparatory school which advised foreign study, but it has been their ambition to have a school in one of the European capitals where Chicago students could have both the advantages of foreign and American study. They will not give up the Chicago school, but will enlarge the faculty and take new studios after their return from Europe."

"Mrs. Bergey was a graduate of DePauw University, when she came to Chicago. Her preliminary work was done with William M. Sherwood, after which she went to Europe for the purpose of studying operatic music with the directors of opera companies in Milan, Paris and Berlin. A sojourn in each of these cities gave her a knowledge of the Italian, German and French opera that could be acquired in no other way. After she returned from Europe she was for a time engaged in concert work."

"Since her marriage with Theodore S. Bergey, the director of the opera school, she has devoted her time to teaching and to the direction of the piano department of the school. She also appears frequently as a soloist and as an accompanist for opera artists and for graduates of the Bergey school in concert in Chicago."

CASEY SIMS CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Casey Sims was surprised last evening when about thirty friends called on him at the home of his mother, Mrs. America Sims, on north Meridian street, to spend several hours in a pleasant manner. The surprise was a gleam in honor of Casey's 30th birthday anniversary and was genuine, while he knew he had a birthday some time he had forgotten of the event until returning home last evening to find the visitors in waiting for him. The occasion was a happy one and the serving of a luncheon greatly added to the feature. Mr. and Mrs. Jake McKinney and Miss Josephine Rodelle of Turner, were among the guests.—Brazil News.—Sims formerly lived in this city.

Elder Harvey Oliphant, of Crawfordsville, was here this morning on his way home from Coatesville, where he preached Sunday. Elder Oliphant is one of the oldest Baptist ministers in Indianapolis. He has been pastor of four Baptist churches, one a Roachdale, Pallistine, Crawfordsville and Pimento, for the past forty-two years.

LOUISA GOMPF IS RE-MARRIED

INDIANAPOLIS WOMAN WHO WAS DEFENDANT IN RECENT SENSATIONAL DIVORCE CASE IN PUTNAM COURT WEDS H. A. VAN AUSDEL.

SINGLE JUST FIVE DAYS

Five days after she had been divorced Mrs. Louisa M. Gompf yesterday obtained a license to marry Hugh A. Van Ausdel. According to reports from Greencastle, Mrs. Gompf was divorced from her husband, Fred Gompf, in Putnam County last Monday, the divorce being granted to him. The name of Van Ausdel was prominently mentioned in the suit and his connection with the case is said to have been responsible for Mrs. Gompf not being allowed alimony. In the application for a marriage license Van Ausdel and Mrs. Gompf both gave their address of 511 North Illinois street. They could not be found there last night. Van Ausdel said in his application it was his first marriage. Mr. Gompf is said by his former neighbors to have left Indianapolis. The divorce suit was filed in Marion county, and after being venue to Morgan county was sent to Putnam county.—Indianapolis Star.

Mr. Gompf was given a divorce from Mrs. Gompf by Judge Hughes last Monday morning. Mrs. Gompf's cross-complaint for divorce and alimony was refused by Judge Hughes.

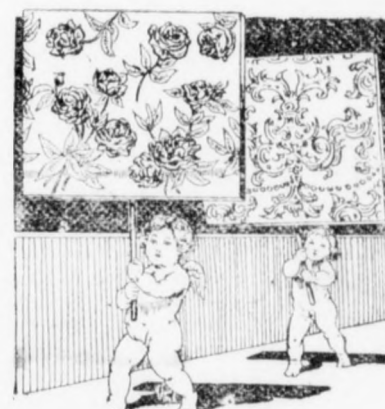

The case was one of the most sensational divorce cases tried here in many years. It was tried week before last, but Judge Hughes took it under advisement until the first day of the March term of court. H. A. Van Ausdel, who married Mrs. Gompf, was accused of having illegal relations with her. Although summoned to appear here during the trial to testify, Van Ausdel failed to appear. Mr. Gompf is now living in Brazil, where he is managing a brick manufacturing concern.

CLINTON TOWNSHIP TEAM WINS FROM PARKERSBURG

The Clinton Township high school team defeated the fast Parkersburg Independents at basketball Saturday night, score 24 to 20. The first half ended 12 to 3 in favor of Clinton. Clinton seemed to have the opponents outclassed at all stages of the game. Parkersburg got several goals at the beginning of the second half and brought the score within 2 points.

The star of the game was Steward, center for Clinton. His defensive work showed good form. Taylor played good ball for Parkersburg. After the game it was learned by Clinton the last half lasted 26 minutes, the score being 22 to 13 in favor of Clinton. As Clinton had the game won they let it pass without protest. The line-up: Clinton (24) Parkersburg (20). Watts F. LaFollette

BARBARA And the Beast

By Dorothy Blackmore

Barbara Graham was an artist, and like most of her kind she was struggling to keep the wolf from stepping over the threshold of her studio. Practical beyond the usual run of young woman possessed of the artistic temperament, she had even gone so far as to make capital out of that same hungry wolf by painting his imaginary image so realistically that it sold for a goodly sum.

Animals were Barbara's specialty. She had been a lover of the dumb beasts ever since she was old enough to love anything, and when she took up her palette and brush her fancy seemed to run always to animals.

For this reason, she had obtained for the summer months an outdoor studio converted from the small back garden of an English basement house. She found it more convenient for her animal models and, in lieu of going to the country herself, she found the outdoor work beneficial. An old stone wall enclosed the garden and Ivy and Virginia creepers struggled over it here and there. The small grass plot in the center was edged with bright, old-fashioned flowers, and Barbara had added a rustic urn or two to the corners.

This morning she was putting the finishing touches to a canvas over which she had worked unusually hard. In the picture a big, tri-colored mother cat lay in an overturned basket with her small family about her.

Barbara had discovered the feline family in her big rustic chair one morning when she came down to work and she had taken it as a gift from the gods, for she was in need of a model for a new canvas. She had waited only long enough for the wee kittens to get their eyes open and assume fat and chubby proportions before beginning to transfer their likenesses to her canvas. Meantime, she had made the mother cat comfortable in a basket and fed her half a bottle of her own precious milk each morning.

This picture, with two others, was to be hung in a small exhibit during the approaching winter.

Barbara now had two of her pictures ready, and, for the third, she was worried. It was an easy enough matter to go to the animal home and secure a model from which to paint, but Barbara's heart was set on painting a certain little thoroughbred dog she had seen pass her windows every morning for three weeks. The question was—how to get him! The dog followed his master closely and Barbara could not well accost a stranger and beg to be allowed to paint his pet dog.

As she stood putting little touches here and there to the cluster of kittens on her easel and realized that the work before her was finished, she became more and more obsessed with the desire to paint that white dog for her third picture. She placed great hope in the criticism of the work to be hung this winter and something told her she could do her best work if inspired by that strange little animal.

She became restless and, making the kittens comfortable in the righted basket, she donned her hat and went forth to walk off her uneasiness.

Barbara had been of the idea, ever since she had come to the big city to follow her profession, that if she did exactly what was right at all times, thought evil of no one and harmed no one by deed or word, she would be given all that was her due. She had been brought up with this idea and the teachings of her mother clung to her now that she was alone in the world.

Therefore, as she walked she thought, and gradually a peaceful feeling took the place of the spirit of unrest that had possessed her for days. After a turn through a nearby park she reached her footsteps toward her studio.

When she was within half a block of the house behind which was her work-garden, she was surprised to see the old tri-colored mother cat approaching her. It was the custom of the animal, after she had put her babies to sleep, to mount the garden wall and go out for air and exercise, but Barbara was not expecting to see her on the public street.

"Well, puss," Barbara was beginning, and had stopped to pick up the animal when, with a spit and a growl and a rapidly bushing tail, the cat made for the narrow passageway between the houses, a white dog in full pursuit.

"My dog!" cried Barbara aloud, and running to peep down the narrow passage. "Oh, if I could only keep him!" she wished aloud.

Footsteps came quickly behind her. "I beg pardon, my dog is chasing your cat," said a man's voice behind her. Barbara turned and faced the owner of the dog.

"He was," Barbara corrected. "She—Puss has climbed the wall and your dog is barking frantically at her."

The man followed Barbara's direction and saw his white dog dancing about in a mad desire to be at the object of his chase.

"He's death on cats—is Tehucats," he explained. "I'm glad he did not get her. I beg a thousand pardons in his behalf."

"It's Fate," Barbara said, half to herself.

The man looked at her oddly. Perhaps this young woman—though intelligent and unusually pretty—was not quite right in her mind. Suddenly Barbara looked him squarely in the eyes and his doubt fled.

"I must explain," she began. "I am an artist and animals are my forte. I have seen you pass with your dog for days, and ever since I laid eyes on him I have wanted to paint him. He is such a beauty with his long white coat and his pert little body. That's the reason I say this is Fate, for now I shall have the temerity to ask if I may use him for a model long enough to get him sketched into the canvas. I—"

"But of course you may," the man interrupted. "Nothing would please me more. I'm proud of Tehucats as you may well believe when I tell you I brought him all the way from Nome. He is an Esquimaux dog and I had a hard time keeping him the first summer in this part of the country."

"I thought he had come from a cold climate with that coat," Barbara said, her eyes on the now discouraged canine.

"Here, Tehucats," called the man. "Come and make your apologies to—"

"Barbara Graham," quickly supplemented Barbara, a rich color spreading over her face.

"Miss Graham," the man repeated, bowing.

"And I may paint him?" she asked, all her artist's soul rejoicing.

"Most certainly. When will you want him?" the man asked, pulling the ears of the animal beside him.

Barbara thought a moment. "I'll have to find a home for my kitties before I dare to bring my enemy into the studio," she explained. "Would tomorrow do?" she asked.

"The sooner the better—eh, Tehucats?" the man asked. "I will bring him tomorrow morning and—" producing his card—"this is his owner's name."

Barbara took the card. With her eyes on it she confessed to the unconventional situation and apologized, but her plea was that her one passion in life was to succeed in her art and that if properly inspired she could do better work.

The man understood, and left her with the promise to bring his dog on the following morning.

It took only a few days—for Barbara worked constantly—to sketch in the figure of the dog, and then the artist was forced to admit that she could continue the work without the presence of the model.

"But it is no trouble for me to leave him—if it would be easier for you," the man insisted.

Barbara smiled up at him. "Of course it would be easier, but—"

"Then he shall come," the man interrupted with a determined expression.

Barbara said nothing. She was squeezing the contents of a small tube onto her palette with wanted extravagance.

"And—Miss Graham," the man began, waiting for her to answer him by looking up—"might the master come some day after studio hours, and sit with the artist—if not for her?"

"Yes," Barbara answered, "he might—if he likes."

John Harden sat in the rustic studio many times after that, and when the picture his dog had inspired took an honorable mention at the exhibit he bought it to hang in their home, his own and Barbara's.

WHAT IS A DOORBELL FOR?

Cy Pose Insisted That His Neighbors Must Use the Improvements on the House.

Cy Pose was considered somewhat of a character round Hickory Forks. When he built his new house, he declared that it was not going to be a mere place to stay in. He was going to have all the "frills." Anyway, he had a doorbell, then a new thing in the neighborhood.

Soon after the new house was completed, Josh Briggs, an old neighbor who lived on the farm just up the road, came over one Sunday afternoon for a little call. It was pleasant fall weather. The windows were all open, but the front door was shut.

Josh knocked a little timidly, for everything looked pretty fine.

Cy, comfortably rocking in the front room, gave no heed.

Josh knocked again—louder.

Cy rocked away, silently.

Josh grew restive after a moment's wait and knocked again—a good loud knock.

Cy rocked on.

Josh changed feet, wiped his face, puzzled and offended, for he knew the folks were at home. Once more he tried it, a loud, continued knock that resounded over the entire place.

Whereupon Cy, still rocking comfortably, yelled:

"Ring the doorbell, consarn ye! Don't you know nothin'?"—Youth's Companion.

Colored Teeth.

Pearly teeth are not the fashion everywhere. Firms of artificial teeth manufacturers who have an export trade have to keep in stock molars of every shade of color from white to black. There is a steady demand for black teeth in Siam, Java, Batavia, and Burma, where the natives chew the betelnut, which blackens the teeth. For Persia the teeth must be absolutely milk-white. Recently an order was received from Bhavnagar, in India, for some bright red and blue artificial teeth. Smokers' teeth are regularly supplied to dentists in shades to match those which have been discolored by nicotine.

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so called cures for years, without benefit and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try them. Only 50c at the Owl Drug store.

Inspired Famous Hymn.

"Jesus, Lover of My Soul," is a hymn around which many traditions and sacred associations cling. The story connected with its origin may be legendary, but it is no less beautiful. Its author, Charles Wesley, was sitting at his desk by an open window when a bird pursued by a hawk flew in. The bird was saved, for the hawk feared to follow it. The incident inspired Wesley to write his famous lines.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of coughs, colds and croup. It can be depended upon. Try it. Sold by all dealers.

$100 Per Plate.

Was paid at a banquet to Henry Clay, in New Orleans in 1842. Mighty costly for those with stomach trouble or indigestion. Today people everywhere use Dr. King's New Life Pills for these troubles as well as liver, kidney and bowels disorders. Easy, safe, sure. Only 25 cts at the Owl Drug store.

Live Australian Freaks.

A calf, somewhat of a freak of nature, was born on T. G. Ware's farm at Little Akaroa, Australia, recently. It has five legs, the extra one working in a socket in the breastbone. The calf is thriving, and is strong and healthy. Another freak, a lamb, is reported to have been born at Plat Point Station. It has three ears and eight legs. It did not live.

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

BOYS' AMUSEMENTS IN CUBA

Spin Tops in Spring Just Like Their American Cousins—Reason for Custom Is Problem.

Boys certainly are boys the world over, and the little Cuban youngster is as like Young America as two peas in a pod, says a Havana correspondent in the New York Sun. Just why the Cuban hopeful should resort to the sport of top spinning in the springtime and no other is inexplicable, but it is true here just as it is in the states. It is not remarkable that they should spin tops. The strange thing about it is that they should only take up this amusement in the spring. In the United States there is a reason for this. The winter has kept the youngsters more or less bottled up in their sports he has indulged in have had their reason in cold weather. With the coming of the warm spring days and the disappearance of snow and ice, the top inevitably appears first of all and has its run until superseded by marbles, the playing of which is better suited to the still warmer days following.

But in Cuba there is no such reason. So far as the climate is concerned the youngsters can spin tops successfully from one end of the year to the other. Why do they do it only in the spring? That this is a fact cannot be controverted, and it is done, too, by boys who have never set foot on American soil. Nor has the practice come with the American flag.

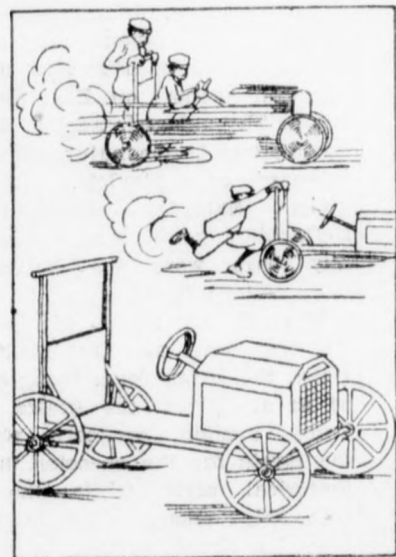

Is it then psychological? Is there anything in the mental make-up of the species boy which irresistibly compels him to seek his top in the months of March and April? Can it be heredity, handed down through all the ages from the days of Noah's ark?

Now if this be not the explanation of the reason why Yankees in a cold climate and Cubans in a hot one spin tops in the same months of the spring and at no other time, let some student of the race furnish another.

HERE IS A NEW PUSHMOBILE

Imitation of Automobile Recently Built by Philadelphia Boys Makes Splendid Racer.

The pushmobile itself is new, but a new type of pushmobile was recently built by a couple of Philadelphia boys, who won a race with it. As most boys know, the pushmobile is an imitation of an automobile, and the majority are made by their owners. The vehicle shown here has this advantage—there is a long handle pivoted to the back, and the "pusher" propels it by this means, which enables him to run in any position he likes. Otherwise he has to run continually in a bent-over attitude. Another big advantage of this handle is that it can be raised at right angles with the seat of the machine, and the pusher can jump up on a cross-bar that will then be at the bottom, and ride there while going down grade or after a vigorous shove, and get rested. The time and energy thus saved are important factors in a race.

Cooking the Clothes.

One Monday morning little three-year-old Edith volunteered to superintend the family washing. When Jane put the clothes on to boil the small overseer gave one look of open-eyed astonishment, then ran to her mother and excitedly exclaimed: "Oh, mamma! Jane's cooking the clothes for dinner!"

Elaborate Menu Composed of Some Old Dishes in New Form and Some That Are Really New—Rector Leaf.

Rector Leaf.—Remove pulp from four grapefruit, add one-half cupful powdered sugar, two teaspoonfuls of orange curacao, one teaspoonful each of lemon juice and Kirsch, and a speck of salt. Chill and serve in coupe glasses with mint leaves.

Cream of Watercress Soup.—Wash, pick over and finely chop one bunch watercress, add to three cupfuls of white stock, bring to a boiling point and let simmer ten minutes; then strain through double thickness cheese cloth. Melt three and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of flour and add to stock. Cook until mixture thickens, add one cupful of heavy cream, season with salt and pepper and color green. Serve with thin triangular pieces of toasted bread.

Scallops en Brochette.—Clean scallops, cook until they begin to shrivel, drain and dry. Put on skewers alternating with small slices of bacon. Cook in hot oven until bacon is crisp and brown. Arrange on serving-dish and garnish with cucumber cups filled with cubes of cucumber, lemon and parsley.

Sweetbreads.—Parboil four pairs of sweetbreads in white wine to which is added one onion, ten slices carrot, three stalks celery, one teaspoonful salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper-corns 20 minutes. Drain sweetbreads and glaze in butter to which is added beef extract. Arrange on pieces of sauted bread and pour over a thick sauce made of four tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, two-thirds cup each chicken stock and cream, yolk two eggs, salt, pepper, cayenne and lemon juice to taste. Dip a fork in beef extract and trail through the sauce. Garnish with strips of cooked ham and green peppers.

A Basket of Mushrooms.—Cook long strips of macaroni in boiling salted water, drain but do not rinse with cold water. Stick small wooden skewers at equal distances in a circular mound of cooked hominy. Cover skewers with macaroni and weave long basket. Fill with stewed mushrooms prepared as follows: Clean one pound mushrooms, remove caps and place in pieces. Saute in five tablespoonfuls butter three minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and pour over one-half to three-fourths cup cream. Cook five minutes.

Porcupine Salad.—Remove skins from eight small tomatoes and let stand until chilled. Arrange lettuce leaf on a plate, in center put one tablespoon salad dressing, on dressing place a tomato which has been stuck with small strips of celery and green peppers at regular intervals. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

Waltham Salad Dressing.—Mix two teaspoonfuls each salt and sugar, one teaspoon mustard and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Add one egg slightly beaten, one-fourth cup vinegar and one cup sour cream. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens.

Siberian Charlotte.—Line individual moulds with lady fingers brushed over with rum. Cover bottom of mould with orange ice to the depth of one-half inch; then add enough whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla to fill mould. Place small moulds in a pan or larger mould. Cover, pack in salt and ice, and let stand one and one-half hours.

Lady Fingers.—Beat whites three eggs until stiff, add gradually one-third cup powdered sugar and continue the beating. Then add yolks two eggs beaten until thick and lemon-colored, and one-fourth teaspoonful vanilla. Cut and fold in one-third cup flour mixed with one-eighth teaspoon salt. Shape on a tin sheet covered with unbleached paper, using a pastry bag and tube. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and bake in a slow oven.

Scalloped Fish.

Take any boiled fresh fish, as trout or whitefish; pick into flakes and be careful to free from all bones. Scatter the shredded fish in the bottom of an earthen dish, cover with a layer of cracker crumbs, then a layer of fish, put in a little pepper and salt, if necessary; add a teaspoonful of melted butter, then another layer of crumbs, then of fish, seasoning, and so on until the dish is nearly full. Have a layer of crackers on top, and over the whole pour enough milk to cover. Put a small plate on top and bake for 40 minutes in a hot oven. Before serving take off the plate to let it brown.

English Dumplings for Stew. These are very simple, but ten times out of twelve uneatable. The following are always a success: Take one cup of flour (or more, according to quantity needed), two heaping teaspoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, mix with about three-quarters cup of milk to make a dough very soft. Flour palms of hands and, handling as lightly as possible, drop in pieces on top of stew (size desired). Leave cover off stewpan for 15 minutes, cover for another 15 minutes and send to table immediately.

WHEN THEY WENT BACK HOME

Humorist Records Some Surprises That Attended the Occasion of Popular Celebration.

During a recent Old Home Week in an up-state village the following "never-will-amount-to-anthings" were in attendance:

John Wilson Clarke, who was always too lazy to do the chores, came up from New York in his big seven-passenger car. On account of pressing work he could stay but a few hours.

Ex-Gov. Silby Kirkwood, who was naturally thick-headed and half-baked in his youth, stopped over in his private car to see his old home.

Dr. Willus G. Dyer, one of the best-known surgeons in the country, called the town fool when a boy, dropped in and left enough money for a town library.

Miss Caroline Jensen Atwood, too stupid to learn in the old red school-house, now a popular authoress and playwright visited her relatives.

Charlie Druke, the spendthrift, shut up his Wall Street office long enough to attend.

One of the most noticeable features of the whole celebration was the absence of the men and women who gave much promise of originality and worth during their youth.

Lack of memory in their old age accounts for the fact that not one of the old fogies present ever said anything but good of anybody, including the successful boys present.—Don. Cameron Shafer in Judge.

DICKENS FITTED FOR STAGE

Kate Field, Excellent Judge of Character, Confident He Might Have Been Great Actor.

No one ever paid a much higher tribute to Dickens than did Kate Field. She had the soul of a poet, a discriminating taste in art and literature and wide knowledge of the world. In mentality she was fully as strong as either of her brilliant brothers, David, Dudley, Stephen J. or Cyrus W., and she certainly was as good if not a better judge of character.

She once wrote an appreciation of Dickens in which she declared the world lost its greatest actor when Boz became a writer. She gave a description of one of Dickens readings that was masterly in its vividness of detail. Such versatility as she credited Dickens with displaying as he assumed the character of first one and then another of his creations, the pithos, the humor, the tragedy he put into a tone; the marvelous way in which he stirred the emotions of old and young in his audience, would appear to be a bit extravagant were it not that now and then in later years some old man, looked upon as stern and unemotional, told with faltering voice how he stood in line all one night to buy a ticket to one of Boz' readings, and then went on to talk just about as Miss Field wrote, only before he got as far along in his story the tears were running down his wrinkled cheeks—his old heart strings still attune to the magic of The Master.

Difference in Icebergs.

No two icebergs appear to be exactly alike in size and shape. Some look, for all the world, like Arabs' tents as they glide along, and others like cliffs, castles, cathedrals, yachts, and occasionally they resemble some well known animal. Some of the pinnacles of a large berg rise nearly 1,000 feet above the water, while the base may occupy an area of ten or twelve acres. Seen through a powerful glass, one may detect waterfalls upon these islands of ice, and all kinds of arctic birds, and perhaps a few seals.

Then the colors are almost beyond description. The stately pinnacles glisten in the sun like powdered glass. At times the berg is pure white, at others it looks greenish.—From Harold J. Shepherson's "Icebergs" in St. Nicholas.

"Liked to Be Guiled."

Sir William Gull, the well-known London physician, was once the victim of an amusing piece of repartee on the part of a fellow practitioner. The occasion was a dinner party at which several distinguished medical men were present. The conversation happened to turn upon the subject of quackery, and Sir William Gull expressed his conviction that a certain amount of it was essential to success in practice, adding: "It is an example of the old saying, 'Populus vult decipi' (people like to be deceived). 'Quite so,' said the host; 'now, can any one present give an English equivalent to that?' 'Nothing easier,' replied Sir William Gull, 'the English equivalent is, 'The public likes to be guiled.'"

Prowls "Ghost."

Thinking they had seen a "ghost," a number of Dundee (Scotland) townsmen, while walking through the cemetery recently, took to their heels and summoned the nearest gatekeeper. The "vision" which had aroused their alarm—that of a figure in scanty attire standing behind a gravestone, had vanished when they returned with reinforcements, and all there was to be seen was a large piece of red flannel. It afterwards transpired that the owner being greatly irritated by the flannel, which was next the skin, had gone to the cemetery with the idea of getting rid of it, which he could not do without shedding his garments.

An extraordinary large audience greeted President F. J. McConnell, at the University Service Sunday afternoon. Dr. McConnell preached on "Idealism." The sermon was a most excellent one and was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. It was announced just before the sermon that the last of the series of sermons by Dr. McConnell will be given in Meharry hall at 6:30 o'clock this evening. These meetings, have been well attended.

Local coal merchants are predicting a coal famine, not only in Greencastle, but over all this section of the country, within the next few weeks. The condition in Greencastle at present is anything but bright. The coal dealers are unable to fill their orders. Car shortages on the railroads and the inability of the mines to fill their orders are the reasons. Large manufacturing concerns, railroads and large consumers of coal are buying the fuel in great quantities, in the anticipation of a strike among the coal miners. The Vandavia railroad has leased an acre of ground just this side of Indianapolis and is shipping coal to it by the train load. Switches have been built onto the ground and large forces of men are at work unloading the coal into great piles.

MRS. W. W. MCGAUGHEY ENTERTAINS 75 FRIENDS

Mrs. W. M. The fraternity boys were assisted in their program by Theodore W. McCreery, of the DePauw Music School, who was accompanied by Miss Erma Hand. Following is the program of Mr. McCreery's numbers:

HAVE YOU MADE YOUR WILL?

This will be of benefit to you whether you have or not, it is the statement of a leading attorney of Indianapolis. "The Trust Company is rapidly displacing the individual in the matter of trusts. In the past it was not uncommon for the leading citizen of the community to run his own business and handle the trusts of his friends and neighbors, but that time has passed for this very vital reason. In these strenuous times it requires all of each man's time to watch his own basket of eggs. When you select the prosperous business man to act as executor of your will and handle your estate, you do not realize that he may not always remain prosperous, or, would even be alive when the will became effective. The people demand something more permanent than the personal executor, and owing to this demand the Trust Companies have come into the field. Every man or woman knows that at death their estate must pass through the Courts and be administered upon by somebody, whether by will or under the state law, and a realization of this fact should move the thinking man or woman to seek the safest and best methods of settling their affairs."
